

ABSTRACT

A method of classifying a digital image is disclosed. The method provides a region adjacency graph (310) representing the digital image and analyses the region
5 adjacency graph (310) for predetermined patterns. For each identified pattern a classification of the digital image is selected. The region adjacency graph (310) is classified as one of a number of stereotypes.

0939593 091593
665T60" 6656660